DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election of claims 1-4 in the reply filed on 10/31/05 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Racz (U.S. Patent 3930806).

Racz discloses cookware.

It has been held that “[E]ven though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process.” In re Thorpe, 777F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed. Cir. 1985).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Racz (U.S. Patent 3930806) in view of WO200250343.

Racz teaches a method of manufacturing cookware comprising the steps of: providing a bonded composite sheet of material having at least one layer of an aluminum or aluminum alloy material (col. 12, lines 41-52), forming a cookware vessel of a desired configuration having the aluminum or aluminum alloy exposed at least at an edge portion of said formed cookware vessel (Fig. 1 and 2).

Racz fails to teach the step of treating at least said exposed edge of aluminum or aluminum alloy by a micro arc oxidation process to form an Al_2O_3 coating on at least the exposed edge of aluminum or aluminum alloy whereby chemical corrosion/erosion of the exposed edge by caustic cleaning agents is prevented.

'343 teaches the step of treating at least said exposed edge of aluminum or aluminum alloy by a micro arc oxidation process to form an Al_2O_3 coating on at least the exposed surface of aluminum or aluminum alloy whereby chemical corrosion/erosion of the exposed surface by caustic cleaning agents is prevented (Abstract).

Art Unit: 3726

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ the step of '343 on the method of Racz so as to prevent chemical corrosion/erosion.

6. Claims 3 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Racz/'343 as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Miller (U.S. Patent 3490126).

Racz/'343 teach the limitation except the bonded composite sheet of material includes at least one layer of stainless steel and the step of masking the stainless steel prior to the treating step.

Miller teaches the bonded composite sheet of material includes at least one layer of stainless steel and the step of masking the stainless steel prior to the treating step (col. 2, lines 23-27).

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ the step of including at least one layer of stainless steel in the bonded composite sheet of material and masking the stainless steel prior to the treating step, as taught by Miller on the method of Racz/'343 so as to provide a high degree of corrosion resistance.
